Course Description

This course provides an overview of colonial Latin American history from the voyages of Columbus to nineteenth century independence movements in Haiti, Mexico, Peru and Brazil. The region's economy, racial characteristics, religious practices and culture shall serve as the course's primary focus. Students will acquire a solid understanding of historical facts and interpretation while gaining a sense of the broad scope of history as a discipline.

3 credits

General Education Course – Humanities Elective

Student Learning Objectives: As a result of meeting the requirements in this course, students will be able to

- 1. To identify major periods and figures in colonial Latin America.
- 2. To demonstrate an understanding of the narrative framework and factual basis of colonial Latin America.
- 3. To identify and analyze the important political, economic, social, intellectual and religious forces that shaped the above period.
- 4. To summarize and interpret the continuity and change that occurs in colonial Latin America.
- 5. To demonstrate the ability to develop a thesis and support it with historical evidence both in writing and orally.
- 6. To demonstrate basic research skills by locating and using source materials.
- 7. To summarize, paraphrase and quote historical information in properly cited written analyses.

8. To demonstrate the ability to state and support an interpretation of historical issues concisely, coherently and logically.

Course Content

A variety of approaches--political, social, economic, religious, intellectual, cultural—will be used to illuminate historical context and themes of Latin American history. Students will improve their knowledge and understanding of historical content and methods while gaining an appreciation for the role historical processes play in the development of the human condition.

Course Texts

A Short Account of the Destruction of the Indies by Bartolomé de las Casas Slave Revolution in the Caribbean 1789-1804: A Brief History with Documents edited by Laurent Dubois and John Garrigus

The History of Latin America: Collision of Cultures by Marshall Eakin

* Additional texts and primary source documents will be posted on-line during the semester at no cost.

Assessment and Grading

In pursuit of the foregoing goals, the course is based on the reading and discussion of historical writings for both primary and secondary sources; the techniques of historical research and writing are reviewed, and students are expected to use subject specific resources in their preparation for active participation in class and for writing assignments. Students are required to do a substantial amount of expository and critical writing in response to the material presented in the course and by conducting outside research.

Because HIS-130 is a General Education course, it requires students to complete a variety of critical thinking and writing assignments. These assignments may include class discussions and debates requiring the application of critical thinking skills, short in-class essays, out-of-class writing projects (journals, research papers, argument-analysis papers, book reviews, etc.), tests and examinations containing essay components, and so forth. Instructors will respond to and comment on students' writing in detail.

Grading Policy

A student's final grade for the course is based primarily on his or her performance on the required work for the course (writing assignments, examinations, class presentations, etc.) and on his or her overall mastery of the material covered in the course. A student's class participation may also be evaluated, and the grade thereon may be used as a factor in determining the student's final grade for the course; but a class participation grade will count for no more than fifteen percent (15%) of the final grade. Examinations can consist of objective questions such as multiple choice and short answers, but an essay of some form should also be evaluated as part of the test. A sample grade distribution is as follows:

| 1 st Mid-Term Exam | 20% |
|-------------------------------|-----|

| 2 nd Mid-Term Exam | 20% |
|--------------------------------|------|
| Final-Exam (non-comprehensive) | 20% |
| Writing/Research Assignments | 30% |
| Participation/Collegiality | 10% |
| Total | 100% |

BCC Attendance Policy:

All students are expected to attend punctually every scheduled meeting of each course in which they are registered. Attendance and lateness policies and sanctions are to be determined by the instructor for each section of each course. These will be established in writing on the individual course outline. Attendance will be kept by the instructor for administrative and counseling purposes.

History and Geography Departmental Attendance Policy:

It is imperative that students attend class on a daily basis in order to secure the knowledge necessary to succeed in the course. Coming to class on time and staying for the entire class period is expected. Excessive absences will have a detrimental effect on your performance in this course. Attendance will be taken at each class session. It is expected that class will be conducted such that students will benefit in their written work by the lectures and class discussion. If students occasionally arrive late, they should be encouraged to enter quietly, not disturbing the class. If students miss class, they should be encouraged to use the course calendar to stay abreast of material. It is probably a good idea for students to find study partners and to exchange telephone numbers. Make-ups for examinations should be allowed by the instructor if, in the instructor's judgment, the student has presented a good excuse for missing the work. Instructors may penalize work which is late; however, the instructor's policies for make-ups and late work must be clearly specified on the student guide. Collegiality is expected at all times during the course.

Academic Dishonesty (From BCC Handbook):

Bergen Community College is committed to academic integrity—the honest, fair, and continuing pursuit of knowledge, free from fraud and deception. Students are responsible for their own work. Faculty and academic support services staff will take appropriate measures to discourage academic dishonesty. The college recognizes the following general categories of violations of academic integrity whenever a student does one of more of the following: uses unauthorized assistance in any academic work, copies from another student's exam, gives unauthorized assistance to other students, fabricates data in support of an academic assignment, inappropriately or unethically uses technical means to gain academic advantage, and commits plagiarism.
