"A people without the knowledge of their past history, origin and culture is like a tree without roots."

-Marcus Garvey

As Bergen celebrates its 50-year tradition of excellence, the College is reminded of its original mission. Founded to serve the educational and workforce needs of Bergen County, the College has continually stood as an exemplary higher education institution for the region - and country, for that matter.

The needs of Bergen’s students today differ greatly from the needs of their counterparts in the 1960s, but the College’s dedication to innovation has allowed it to adapt to its ever-changing role. In doing so, Bergen continues to be a place for people to change the future trajectory of their lives. Bergen’s faculty and staff are ready to embrace the next 50 years much like they did the previous 50: to meet the demands of tomorrow.

All that is left is to set a path. This strategic plan, “Reimagine Bergen” is that path. It is built on the successes of the past and keeps an eye toward the future. It holds fast to tradition and provides a guiding light for the continued success of our institution.

"Reimagine Bergen", our five-year strategic plan, is the result of broad engagement of our board of trustees, faculty, staff and students. Over 280 faculty, staff and students have been directly involved with the planning process through numerous town hall sessions, focus groups, deep-dives into internal and external environmental data, and writing/editing sessions. I’m pleased to say that as the College conducted this work, the New Jersey Council of County Colleges completed similar goal-setting for its own 2018-2022 strategic plan, which helped affirm that our plan aligned with statewide objectives.

Still, several overarching national and regional forces significantly impact the operation, priorities, and future direction of Bergen. These include:
The national agenda for improving degree completion at community colleges will continue.

A declining high school population means fewer 17-19 years old, the typical college-going student.

The out-migration of Bergen County residents (and state-wide) to surrounding areas. Recent immigrants and low-income families are significantly represented in the in-migration population. These students require more intensive, holistic support.

An improved national economy with significant job growth. Historically, community college enrollment goes up during economic downturns and enrollment goes down during economic up-swings.

These external forces were considered as the strategic planning group proceeded. In addition, three big questions guided the development of this new strategic plan.

- What does a 21st century college look like? This question helped us to develop our collective aspirations for the college.
- How is Bergen already prepared to become a 21st century college? This question facilitated an assessment of what we do well and what we need to improve upon.
- What must we do to accomplish our collective aspirations? This question helped the group to identify priority areas the college needs to address in the near future to carry out the College’s mission and to ensure its continued success.

This new strategic plan, “Reimagine Bergen” is the culmination of much hard work, and I am pleased to present it here.

Michael D. Redmond, Ph.D.
