

The Center for Peace, Justice and Reconciliation announces its annual

PEACE

Scholarship Challenge Spring 2019

The top three submissions will receive awards of:

$1,000 • $750 • $500

What is one conflict you have read about or experienced? How was the conflict resolved? Was the resolution effective? Why or why not? Responses can take several forms, such as an academic essay, short story, personal experience, or a set of poems.

- Submissions should be sent to cpjr@bergen.edu with the subject line "CPJR Scholarship."
- All Bergen students are eligible to participate.
- Responses must be typed, double-spaced, with Times New Roman 12 point font.
- Students' names and contact information (email address and phone number) should appear on the title page.
- Stories and essays should be no more than 1,500 words (approximately five pages).
- Poetry should consist of more than one poem.
- Academic essays should follow MLA standards regarding attribution of quotations and citations.
- Entries will be judged by members of the Center for Peace, Justice and Reconciliation steering committee.
- Scholarship winners will be recognized at the awards luncheon.

Deadline for submission: Monday, April 15, 2019
